THIS MONTH'S COVER

Our July cover displays a montage created by Hideko McKeta, our MWR Marketing Branch Visual Information Specialist and Editor of the Bugle. Hideko-san has chosen and carefully arranged various images to depict those most patriotically familiar to us when we think of Independence Day, the 4th of July. These historic symbols of our great nation have an additional image featured to the left-the joyful welcoming by families and friends of our heroes returning from deployment. The continuing sacrifices of these brave soldiers and their families have allowed us to live in a freedom not available to citizens of any other country. While, traditionally, many will celebrate this day with picnics, barbecues, music and fireworks, we need to reflect on the meaning of this special event in the history of our country.

Our freedom and independence has not been without cost. Let us take the time to remember and celebrate our service members, and, let each know that we support and appreciate them.
